Message from

Francine Lemire, MD CM, CCFP, FCFP, CAE, ICD.D
Executive Director and CEO

On behalf of the College of Family Physicians of Canada (CFPC), it is with sincere pleasure that I congratulate our 2020 award honourees and the recipients of CFPC Special Designations.

Although we cannot gather for our usual ceremony this year, we can take inspiration from our colleagues who are featured in this special edition of our Convocation booklet.

We want to acknowledge the achievements of those who have earned Certificates of Added Competence and who have qualified for Certification, Fellowship, or Life Membership in the CFPC. Thank you all for your commitment to family medicine, your leadership, and your service to your patients and communities.

We hope circumstances will allow us to hold Convocation and celebrate your achievements in person at Family Medicine Forum in 2021. Until we meet again, take good care.

W. Victor Johnston Award

Dr. Sandy Buchman

Dr. Sandy Buchman is a firm believer in the idea that if you are not part of the solution, you are part of the problem.

Before obtaining his medical degree and completing his family medicine residency at McMaster University, he had a background in psychology and worked as a relationship-based social worker. Dr. Buchman is naturally drawn to the social accountability aspect of family medicine and is driven to help those in need. Over the course of his career this has included collaborating with social workers in various communities to develop supportive strategies for patients and advocating for positive change in the health care system. He says his patients led him to make these choices in his work and inspired him to take on many leadership roles.

Dr. Buchman was a clinician at a comprehensive family medicine practice in Mississauga, Ontario, for more than two decades before he decided to focus on palliative care. He worked full-time in home-based palliative care at the Temmy Latner Centre for Palliative Care in Toronto for 15 years. He then took on work with the Palliative Education and Care of the Homeless (PEACH) service through Inner City Health Associates. Dr. Buchman is now the Freeman Family Chair in Palliative Care at North York General Hospital.

He has been consistently involved with the Ontario College of Family Physicians since completing his residency. He has also been an active leader in national associations since then, both with the CFPC and the Canadian Medical Association.

Dr. Buchman loves spending time with friends, watching films, taking on various water sports, and going to the family cottage.

Honorary Member

Dr. George Carson

One of the most joyful things you can do in medicine is assist in the delivery of a baby, according to Dr. George Carson. It's little wonder, then, that he has dedicated his career to improving the care of pregnant women across Canada.

Following medical school at Queen's University, Dr. Carson began his residency in internal medicine at Queen's before changing his focus to obstetrics and gynecology. He completed his training in Boston and Montreal. After stints in Calgary and in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, he settled in Saskatchewan and has practised at the Regina General Hospital since 1989.

Dr. Carson was a founding co-chair of the multidisciplinary team that launched Advances in Labour and Risk Management (ALARM), a renowned continuing professional development course familiar to many family physicians. He also contributed to the creation of the CFPC's Certificate of Added Competence in Obstetrical Surgical Skills. Being able to support family medicine colleagues in the provision of obstetrical care, especially those who practise in rural and remote areas in Canada, is of great importance to him.

The numerous leadership positions Dr. Carson has held include serving as the senior medical officer of the Regina Qu'Appelle Health Region from 1995 to 2011 and as president of the Society of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists of Canada from 2016 to 2017. He is a clinical professor in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology at the University of Saskatchewan and a member of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Foundation for Women's Health.

When Dr. Carson retires in 2021, you will likely find him enjoying some extra woodworking projects, cross-country skiing, or simply spending more time outdoors under the prairie skies he loves.

Honorary Member

Dr. Bonnie Henry

At the start of the COVID-19 pandemic, Dr. Bonnie Henry's delivery of daily media updates as British Columbia's Provincial Health Officer garnered praise from around the world for her even-keeled, empathetic, and evidence-based approach. Her gentle reminder to "Be kind, be calm, and be safe" inspired confidence in the provincial government's response to the crisis.

This is the kind of leadership that Dr. Henry has exhibited throughout her career, which began with medical school at Dalhousie University. During her training she enlisted in the Royal Canadian Navy, and after graduating she served as a medical officer for a decade at Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt in British Columbia. She also completed a master's degree in public health at San Diego State University, a residency in preventive health at the University of California at San Diego, and another residency in community medicine at the University of Toronto.

In 2001 Dr. Henry was appointed an associate medical officer of health in Toronto, a role in which she helped lead the city's battle against SARS in 2003. She also participated in World Health Organization efforts to eradicate polio in Pakistan and to quash an Ebola outbreak in Uganda.

Dr. Henry was drawn back to British Columbia in 2005 to take on a position as a physician epidemiologist at the BC Centre for Disease Control. She was appointed deputy provincial health officer in 2014 and assumed her current role in 2018.

An effective communicator, Dr. Henry is an associate professor in the Faculty of Medicine at the University of British Columbia. She updated her 2009 book, Soap and Water & Common Sense, in March 2020 to include a new introduction about COVID-19.
